E – Environmental Resources: Section 2.1.6; Sacramento River-San Joaquin River Water Quality Control Board Basin Plan	E2-2	Insert a new paragraph between the existing first and second paragraph. The new paragraph reads: "The USEPA has designated the SWRCB as the State water pollution control agency, with authority to implement the CWA in California (Water Code § 13160). The SWRCB and the State's nine Regional Water Quality Control Boards (RWQCBs) work in a coordinated effort to implement and enforce the CWA, as provided for in the State's Porter-Cologne Water Quality Act. The SWRCB carries out its water quality protection authority through the application of specific Regional Water Quality Control Plans, formulated and adopted by the RWQCBs, which submits these plans to the SWRCB for review. The SWRCB reviews the plans, revises them as necessary, and approves the plans (Water Code § 13245). A State water quality standard "consist(s) of the designated uses of the navigable waters involved and the water quality criteria for such waters based upon such uses." (33 U.S.C. § 1313(c)(2)(A).)"
